The Endless Day In July '17

Wind blowing through the trees
Sun beaming on the hot sand
Clear blue skies as clear as those blue eyes
Time passing but not quick enough
Constantly thinking but not saying anything
Running from my feelings but not seeing the finish line
When will I realize that these thoughts don't fade away
You parade in my mind every minute of the day
Spending my moments in solitude thinking of the right words
I wish I could just express my wave of emotion to you
Playing different scenarios in my mind
Pondering on what we can be
We have such compatibility
My sternness begins to leave my mind
I'm starting to wish I never went in for a swim
Now I'm stuck drowning in those clear ocean eyes
Day by day falling deeper
With no intentions to escape
With no plan of escaping
I settle for the fact
That I have fallen for my best friend
